

Howard L. Terry

Howard Terry was born on Nov. 27, 1916, in Cameron. He attended the University of Texas on a football scholarship and earned his bachelors degree in 1938. Terry worked for Procter & Gamble until 1942, when he entered the U.S. Navy during World War II and served on the Pacific front. He participated in possibly the largest naval battle in history, the Battle of Leyte Gulf. After his time in the military, he went on to manage several businesses in construction, banking, real estate and the oil industry in the Houston area. Terry and his wife, Nancy, started the Terry Foundation in 1986. The foundation has helped over 2,600 young adults attend college and has become the largest private source of scholarships in the state since its inception.

Ambassador Tibor P. Nagy, Jr.

Ambassador Tibor P. Nagy, Jr. is currently serving as Vice Provost for International Affairs at Texas Tech University. During the 2002 academic year he was the Department of State's "Diplomat in Residence" at the University of Oklahoma. Previously he was the U.S. Ambassador to Ethiopia from 1999-2002, and Ambassador to Guinea from 1996-99.

Before that, he attended the Department of State's prestigious Senior Seminar. (During this year, Ambassador Nagy lectured extensively at educational institutions and to civic groups around the U.S. about US foreign policy, Africa, diplomatic careers and Foreign Service life.)

Ambassador Nagy joined the Foreign Service in 1978 as a management analyst in the Bureau of Personnel. His first overseas assignment was as General Services Officer in Lusaka, Zambia from 1979-81. Then he was assigned to Victoria, Seychelles, for two years as Administrative Officer. He served as Systems Administrator for the African Bureau in Washington from 1983-84 and then returned overseas as Administrative Officer in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia from 1984-86. For the next eight years, he was Deputy Chief of Mission at Lome, Togo (1987-90); Yaounde, Cameroon (1990-93); and Lagos, Nigeria (1993-95).

Ambassador Nagy was born in Budapest, Hungary on April 29, 1949 and arrived in the United States as a political refugee in 1957. He received a Bachelor of Arts from Texas Tech University in 1972 and a Masters Degree from George Washington University in 1978. He speaks Hungarian and French, and has received numerous awards, including the Department of State's "Superior Honor" award, five "Meritorious Honor" awards as well as being runner-up for the prestigious "Deputy Chief of Mission of the Year" award. Ambassador Nagy is a resident of Texas, and is married to Eva Jane Nagy. The Nagys have two sons and a daughter: Peter, Stephen, and Tisza. He currently teaches adjunct faculty in the Honors College.
